

The Southwestern College Library blogs are maintained to provide faculty, staff and students with a space to share information on topics relevant to literacy and education. The following are recommended topics for contributions:

- Reviews on books that you've recently read
 - Example: <http://blbooks.blogspot.com/2009/11/elizabeth-gaskell-mary-barton.html>
- Reviews and basic descriptions of technology tools that you find interesting
 - Example:
<http://librarianinblack.net/librarianinblack/2009/12/iphonebooks.html>
- Announcements regarding school and library events
 - Example: <http://ebranch2.columbuslibrary.org/blog/john-green-coming>
- Tools and advice to promote better teaching and more engaging presentations
 - Example: <http://allearning.org/2009/12/21/fighting-for-attention-engaging-e-learning-hacks/>

Though there are not specific topics to be excluded from these blogs, professionalism is desired. Posts should not be mean-spirited, illegal or against school policies. Please contact me at ajones@swcollege.net if you have any questions!